HARD WORK.

Sam's Desperate Effort at Composing a Love Letter.

To one old southern negro in New York the difficulties of letter composition seemed well nigh insurmountable. The old fellow, as a writer in the Atlanta Constitution relates, asked his "boss," Colonel Yerger, to write a letter for him to his sweetheart.

"All right, Sam, I'll do it," agreed the colonel.

"Has yer got de paper and de ink and de pen ready, sah?"

"Yes, Sam, 'tis ahead."

"Write Thompson street, New York."

"All right."

"Has yer got hit written?"

"Yes."

"All ob hit?"

"Certainly."

"What has yer got written? Read it to me, boss."

"Thompson street, New York."

"Dat's right. Now write May de fourteen."

"Yes."

"Has yer got hit down, boss, al-ready?"

"Yes."

"G'way, boss, you're jokin'! Read it to me."

"May 14."

"Mah goodness! You has got hit down al-right. Now, boss, read hit all over from de berry beginning."

"Thompson street, New York, May 14."

"Dat's right. Whew! Say, boss, let's res' awhile; I's tired. My head aches like hit was gwinter split."

HE REFORMED.

A Flash of Lightning Made Him See His Evil Ways.

A group of men sitting on the dry goods boxes in front of a country store were discussing big storms.

"There's no use in talking," remarked one of them. "We are all badly scared in a thunderstorm."

"I remember one time when I was, sure enough," said another. "It was about a year after I was married, and I was on my way home from town. It began to thunder and lighten when I was about halfway there, and the rain fell in sheets. I stopped under a big tree. I knew that wasn't safe, but I thought I'd risk it."

"In a few minutes the lightning struck a tree about a hundred feet away, and I fell down, either from the shock or from fright. I don't know which to this day. But I got up again, and my hair rose on end when I remembered that I had a plug of tobacco in my pocket."

"What had that to do with it?"

"Nothing but this: My wife didn't know I chewed tobacco. She hated the weed like poison. 'What if I had been killed and that plug of tobacco found in my pocket?' I thought. I think I had the worst fright right then that I ever had in my life."

"Well?"

"Well, before the next flash came I took that plug out of my pocket and threw it as far as I could send it, and I have never chewed tobacco since."

"Didn't Teach Him That Trick."

"That's a werry knowing animal o' yours," said a cockney gentleman to the keeper of an elephant.

"Very," was the cool rejoinder.

"He performs strange tricks and hantics, does he?" inquired the cockney, eying the animal through his glass.

"Surprisin'!" retorted the keeper.

"We've learned him to put money in that box you see up there. Try him with half a crown."

The cockney handed the elephant half a crown, and, sure enough, he took it in his trunk and placed it in a box high up out of reach.

"Well, that is very extraordinary—hastening, truly!" said the green one, opening his eyes. "Now let's see him take it out and 'and it back.'"

"We never learned him that trick," retorted the keeper and then turned away to stir up the monkeys and punch the hyenas.—London Tit-Bits.

Rearranging the Basis.

"You are charging me $5 a week for board and lodging," Mrs. Irons said to the gray haired person of the name of Harris.

"May I ask how you would itemize it? What part of it is for board?"

"Five dollars," replied the landlady.

"And $2 for my room?"

"Yes."

"Well, if you don't mind, Mrs. Irons," he said, proceeding to square up for another week, "we'll consider hereafter that I'm paying you $5 for lodging and $2 for board. It will seem more as if I were getting the worth of my money."—Chicago Tribune.

The Fortune Tellers.

Lady—Poor man! So you are just out of jail? Tramp—Yes, mum. I was a victim of fortune tellers ten years ago. Lady—Indeed? Tramp—Yes, mum. I'd never been and what I'd ever done during my whole life, and the judge predicted where I would be for the next ten years—Puck.

A Paragon.

"What reason have you for thinking that he's a perfect gentleman?"

"He must be. I had dinner at his house, and neither his wife nor daughter corrected him once."—Detroit Free Press.

Willing to Compromise.

Judge—I'll have to fine you $50 for exceeding the speed limit. Jack Scorch—Look here, judge, this young lady and I want to get married. Rev. it the due and you get the job.—Brooklyn Life.

SHOE SIZES.

How the Standard of Measurement Was Established.

It is most difficult for many persons to remember the sizes of their different articles of wearing apparel. Collars, shirts and gloves are easy enough, because in the case of these it is a matter of actual inches. But the hat and shoe numbers are what puzzle most people, to say nothing of the mystery why a No. 11 stocking goes with a No. 8 shoe.

This last puzzle is, however, easily explained. Stockings have always been measured by the inch from heel to toe, but the numbering of shoes was fixed a long time ago by a Frenchman.

The Frenchman permanently fixed the numbers of shoes for all Europe and America. He arbitrarily decided that no human foot could possibly be smaller than three and seven-eighths inches. So, calling this point zero, he allowed one-third of an inch to a size and accordingly built up his scale. It follows therefrom that a man cannot find out the number of his own shoe unless he be an expert arithmetician. Even then he is likely to go wrong, because all the shoe experts allow for the weight of the individual and the build of his foot before they try to determine what size shoe he ought to wear.

As far as women's shoes are concerned the problem is still more difficult, because many of the manufacturers instead of keeping to the regular scale have marked down their numbers one or two sizes in order to capture easily flattered customers. For this reason most dealers ask out of town customers to send an old shoe with their orders.

The system of measuring hats is much simpler. Any man can tell what size he wears simply by adding the width and length of the inner brim and then dividing by two. Orders can also be sent to the shopkeeper by stating the circumference of the head.

BURNED PAPER MONEY.

Source of Great Profit to the Government and Banks.

At the redemption windows of the treasury and of the subtreasuries of the country any silver coin that has not been mutilated willfully and which still is recognizable as from the mints of the United States will be redeemed at face value, this in spite of the fact that the silver in the worn coin may not be worth half its face value. As to gold coin, the government stands only a small portion of the loss from abrasion; but, according to weight, these worn gold coins always are redeemable.

In the case of the paper currency two-fifths of a note must be presented if it shall be redeemed or a new note issued, and no matter what the evidence may be as to total destruction of this paper currency, the government regards it as the holder's individual loss with which it is no longer concerned. Five may melt $1,000 worth of silver coins and it is worth its metal value. It may melt $1,000 in gold coins and the mint will pay $1,000 in new twenty dollar gold pieces for the mass. But the ashes of $1,000 in paper currency is without value.

In the thousands of fires over the country every year involving office buildings, factories, business houses and family residences an untold total of legal tender notes of all kinds are destroyed. Every piece of such paper lost is lost to the holder and gain to the government or to a national bank. It is a promissory note hopelessly lost to the holder. It is even more, for in many cases an individual man might redeem his debt obligation if he were assured by the holder of it that the piece of paper to which he had signed his name had been destroyed by accident and by no chance could turn up again against him.—Chicago Tribune.

Pope as a Witness.

Pope, like Garrick, made but a poor figure in the witness box. He was cited to appear in defense of Bishop Atterbury when that prelate was tried for high treason in the house of lords in 1723. "I never could speak in public," he told Spence afterward, "and I don't believe that if it was a set thing I could give an account of any story to twelve friends together, though I could tell it to any three of them with a great deal of pleasure. When I was to appear for the bishop of Rochester in his trial, though I had but ten words to say and that on a plain point (how the bishop spent his time when I was with him at Bromley), I made two or three blunders in it and that notwithstanding the first row of lords (which was all I could see) were mostly of my acquaintance."—London Standard.

The Lost Company.

"Hungry, I suppose," said the sharp faced woman as she opened the door just a little bit.

"W'y, no," answered the ragged wayfarer. "I've clean forgot how to be hungry. But I'm out and out lonely."

"Yes. You see, I hadn't had nothing to eat for so long that I've got so thin I can't cast no shadow, and you ain't no idea what company a man's shadow is to him while he is traveling along the road."

Considerate.

Muggins is not handsome, and he knows it. When his first baby was born he asked, "Does it look like me?" Of course they replied in the affirmative.

"Well," said he, with a sigh, "break it to my wife gently."—London Tit-Bits.

TO FIND FAULT.

People Are Sometimes Paid For That Express Purpose.

You have no idea how many things are wrong in a big business until you are paid to look for them, writes Gerold Burgess in Collier's. There were the clocks, for one thing, when I first began. The girls wore too many rats in their hair, there was grease on the elevator doors, expensive hats were dumped one on another, the ventilation was bad, the boxes on the shelves showed from the street through the show windows and about a thousand other things. Then Spindelheim sold tenpots just like our eighteen cent ones for 14 cents, and for a concern like Smith & Co. to be undersold is fatal. There's really nothing that so encourages Mr. Smith; also Rubinstein's window dresser has beaten ours, too, at times. Down it goes in my little report. Wouldn't any woman love my job.

Yes, it's fun to be paid for being a misanthrope, but it's hard work too. At 9 o'clock I begin my promenade through the store—downstairs, upstairs, basement, attic and annex. If a girl at the counter has dirty finger nails or too wide a pompadour to suit me I stop and talk pleasantly. Buy 9 cents' worth of edging and so get her number from the sales slip. She never knows anything about it till her superintendent gives her a scolding the next day. I have eyes like a hawk and a nose like a hound and ears like a small boy under the sofa when a young man's calling on big sister. In ten minutes I have spotted the dust in the corner of the aisle, a girl who wears brass bracelets, a porter who is attending to his duty, a badly arranged counter, an error in spelling on a placard, two store detectives looking on their job and a hideous combination of colors in the front window. I go to the ladies' room and make a note of these things surreptitiously. I don't dare go there too often, though, for fear I'll be identified, so sometimes I run back to my office, two blocks away. So it goes till about 4 o'clock, hither and thither, nigh and yon, looking for trouble. It doesn't do a clerk any good to be unwell to me, I can tell you, or to make me wait too long for my change, but I try to be fair, and if I find a particularly willing and considerate sales person down that name goes in my report too. You might suppose that there'd be good graft in that; but, of course, I keep my position only so long as the head of the firm has absolute confidence in my integrity. The funny part of it is that the more I complain the better he likes it. I'm like the opposition party in congress. I'm never satisfied. When I am I'll have to look for another position.

When "Pluck" Was Slang.

The word "pluck" is an old slang instance of the way in which slang words in the course of time become adopted into current English. We now meet with "pluck" and "plucky" as the recognized equivalents of "courage" and "courageous." An entry in Sir Walter Scott's "Journal" shows that in 1827 the word had not yet lost its low character. He says (volume 2, page 30), "Want of that article black-guardsly called pluck." Its origin is obvious. From early times the heart has been popularly regarded as the seat of courage. Now, when a butcher lays open a carcass he divides the great vessels of the heart, cuts through the windpipe and then plucks out together the united heart and lungs—lights, he calls them—and he terms the united mass "the pluck."—London Notes and Queries.

Henry Ward Beecher's Wit.

On one occasion Mr. Beecher was in the midst of an impassioned speech some one attempted to interrupt him by suddenly crowing like a cock. The orator, however, was equal to the occasion. He stopped, listened till the crowing ceased and then, with a look of surprise, pulled out his watch. "Morning already?" he said. "My watch is only at 10. But there can be no mistake about it. The instincts of the lower animals are infallible."

There was a roar of laughter. The "lower animals" in the gallery collapsed, and Mr. Beecher was able to resume as if nothing had occurred.

French Convicts.

Convicts who are sent to the French penal colony in French Guiana are punished in exactly inverse ratio to their crimes. The murderers and the most dangerous convicts are sent to the island of Salvation, where they lead lazy and healthy lives, but the men convicted of lesser offenses work and die in a terrible climate on the coast. In the settlement of St. Jean de Maroni the mortality is from 40 to 50 per cent. The average life of a convict is two years.

Which Was It?

"Are we slaves or are we free men?" thundered the orator. "I pause for a reply."

"Some of us are married," came the answer from the last row of seats.—New York Sun.

Clean Up the Individual To Advance Him.

WHEREAS immunity baths were the only kind dealt in by San Francisco's former administration a real public bathing institution is contemplated by the present powers that be in the taking over of the old Lick baths. The original charity has benefited many thousands of people in the past and has proved a very practical gift by the donor who while undoubtedly respecting the ever popular bequest to churches, fully appreciated the old truism that cleanliness is next to godliness.

Following the modern procedure in our schools today, where it is agreed that you must clean up the individual before you can better him educationally and otherwise, it was wisdom and forethought which prompted the millionaire to get his fellows ready for betterment by giving them the opportunities to be cleanly.

With the proper safe guarding and sanitary precaution necessary in such places, the baths can be made a noble institution, which may long perpetuate the generosity of Mr. James Lick.

One cannot shudder as formerly when free baths seemed to be the most popular places for the gathering and dissemination of microbes, for public schools and public libraries are found to be as favorite frolicking fields for disease germs as any others and they hop over the intellectual bars with ready facility. With modern precaution, however, this danger can be obviated to a great extent and charities like Mr. Lick's and Mr. Carnegie's flourish without endangering the health of a community.

A Man's Idea of a Woman's Idea of Paradise

A MAN'S idea of a woman's idea of Paradise, as quoted below, may be combatted by the fair sex. He declares a woman's idea of Paradise to be "a pocket full of money, a bargain sale and she the only customer in the store." A woman would explain to you that a pocket full of money does not always transport her into Elysian fields because the money is very often only in her possession for a very short time—a transition period between her husband's giving and the creditors getting. To have and to hold for just a little while is not prone to make one rejoice at a pocket full of money.

The bargain sale is often a delusion and a snare, and even a 49c mark on goods does not convince all women that it were Paradise enough to save one cent. It takes a real slash on the part of the department manager to convince a woman buyer of good sense that she is ahead of the game. Men believe that the word BARGAIN carries a woman off her feet until she verily seems to be driven near Paradise, but as a matter of fact (advertisers please take notice) bargains attract women but they do not always land them and, to revert to the original definition, what goes to complete the woman's paradise, according to man, would in reality spoil the whole game, for if she proved to be the only customer in the store the woman bargain-hunter would immediately get suspicious, for she has confidence in her sister's prowess and would scarcely need to look at the goods to be convinced that there were no real bargains or her friends would have been there.

The handling of the money, which implies the confidence of her husband, the planning of the household expenditures so that a surplus may remain for the indulging of the higher ambitions or finer feelings, a true appreciation of the value and necessity of things and the opportunity to gratify intelligent selections and good taste. This would be heaven to many women, but the man missed his quest who crudely defined it as quoted.

A duck that has faithfully stuck to business during the summer and laid several dozen large fawn-colored eggs complained that she was not appreciated. "See that hen over there," said the duck, "she has not laid so many eggs as I have, nor such big ones, but she has books written about her and verses composed in her honor, while nobody says a word about me."

"The trouble with you," said a wise old cock that happened to overhear her plaint, "is that you do not tell the public what you have done. You lay an egg and waddle off without saying a word, while that sister of mine never lays one without letting everybody in the neighborhood know it. If you want to cut any ice in this community you must advertise."—Ex.

The Tenderfoot Farmer

It was one of these experimental farmers, who put green spectacles on his cow and fed her shavings. His theory was that it didn't matter what the cow ate so long as she was fed. The questions of digestion and nourishment had not entered into his calculations. It's only a "tenderfoot" farmer that would try such an experiment with a cow. But many a farmer feeds himself regardless of digestion and nutrition. He might almost as well eat shavings for all the good he gets out of his food. The result is that the stomach grows "weak" the action of the organs of digestion and nutrition are impaired and the man suffers the miseries of dyspepsia and the agonies of nervousness.

To strengthen the stomach, restore the activity of the organs of digestion and nutrition and brace up the nerves, use Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It is an unfailing remedy, and has the confidence of physicians as well as the praise of thousands healed by its use.

In the strictest sense "Golden Medical Discovery" is a temperance medicine. It contains neither intoxicants nor narcotics, and is as free from alcohol as from opium, cocaine and other dangerous drugs. All ingredients printed on its outside wrapper.

Don't let a dealer delude you for his own profit. There is no medicine for a more madness—to live like a means good time to you for years to come. True economy in a time-piece lies in cleanliness. The delicate parts doing indelible work will soon wear themselves to ruin, destroy the high finish and perfect fit when running in accumulating dirt and rancid oil. It will cost you nothing to let us examine it.

Twenty-five dollars were appropriated for the purchase of trees for the Plaza.

The Water Ordinance was passed for publication.

New Business Firm.

Elsewhere appears in these columns the new advertisement of Granice & Beretta, who have opened up a real estate, loan and insurance office in the Dal Poggetto building, a few doors east of the postoffice. The new firm will make a specialty of taking charge of property belonging to non-residents, sub-dividing acre and selling real estate, etc. Parties desiring to sell or lease property would do well to communicate with the above firm if they desire speedy results.

Both members of the firm are old residents of Sonoma and it will be their aim to extensively advertise and boost the Sonoma Valley and attract hither a share of the colonists who are seeking homes in our favored state.

HIGH SCHOOL ON ACCREDITED LIST.

Graduates Can Now Enter State

University Without Examination.

For years the Sonoma Valley Union High School has not been on the accredited list of the State University, with the result that few of its graduates have been enabled to enter California's principal educational institution for the higher courses and a degree.

In the days of Principal Benj. Weed and Assistant Principal R. M. Sims the Sonoma Valley Union High School stood well with the faculty of the State University and was fully upon the accredited list. After their retirement to engage in other pursuits the school has never been kept up to the high standard which it enjoyed in those days.

Last term, however, the High School Board engaged as its principal Bruce Painter, a young man in every way qualified for the position. No better evidence of this is wanting than the fact that since taking charge of the school a few months ago Prof. Painter has made good, and our High School after a lapse of many years is again in favor with the faculty of the University of California, and is now numbered with the other accredited High Schools of the State, as the following letter from W. Scott Thomas, University Examiner of Schools, will show.

Robt. Poppe, Esq., President of High School Board, Sonoma, Cal.—Dear Sir: I beg to say, in reference to my recent visit of inspection of the Sonoma High School, that I found matters progressing very favorably indeed under the direction of Mr. Painter with his very capable assistants. The University will gladly extend to the school the privilege of entering any graduate of the class of 1910, whom the faculty will recommend, without examination.

A continuance of the school along the lines on which it is now developing should soon place it fully upon the accredited list.

Very respectfully yours,
W. SCOTT THOMAS,
University Examiner of Schools.

AVOIRDUPUIS CLUB

TAKES LONG HIKE.

Visits Hooker Falls—"Guerneville Pete" Loses His Bearings

and "Piedmont Bill" Goes to "The Judge's" Rescue.

The Avoirdupois Club is still in business. Its regular meeting was held Sunday morning. Several applications were received for membership, but were all placed under the table, many of the applicants being overweight and the balance tender-footed. Several bills were presented for kodak supplies, rent for field glasses, etc. All the bills were held up. It was then decided that the day's pleasure would be a walk to the Hooker Falls. The members then started with the determination to make the falls or bust, and strange to relate, with one of the members it was almost "bust."

The failure of "Guerneville Pete" to show up at the start implied that he had quit "de gang," but Pete, like a Socialist, was changeable of mind, and with the aid of a bicycle rejoined the party at Caliente creek.

Up the country side, via Boyes and Agua Caliente Springs, we walked one by two on either side of the road. When Hooker creek was reached we proceeded to climb the steep mountain road, "The Judge" taking advantage of all the resting places. After a climb of several miles "The Judge" contended we were on the wrong road and too far up. "Guerneville Pete," who had journeyed to the falls several years ago, had on this occasion lost his bearings, "Piedmont Bill" was a stranger in a strange land, and "Foxy" pointed to a spot so far up the mountain that it was almost invisible, and argued it was there we would find the hidden falls.

At this juncture we were passing the ranch of Ernest Hicken. "Pete" was elected to go to the house to seek information and find out "where we were at." After a short absence he returned, accompanied by Mr. Hicken, who kindly volunteered to guide the party to the falls, and much to the chagrin of "The Judge" he informed us that it was necessary to hike about two miles further up the mountain in order to reach our goal.

After leaving the main road we followed a rough and steep trail leading to the bottom of the canyon. Here commences a hard luck story trying and amusing in all its details.

"Going down a rugged dell
The gallant Judge exhausted fell."

Had it not been for the providential location of a huge oak tree and the timely assistance of "Piedmont Bill" there would have been a large hole made in the bottom of the Hooker canyon. Three of the party stood rooted to the spot at the hair-breadth escape while the other filled the air with caustic epithets. Suffice it to say, that the "fore" part of his trousers were not damaged.

After this mishap we walked but a few steps and arrived at the place where the sparkling waters fall. It is truly a beautiful place and grand to see that great volume of water dash wildly down one hundred feet, still helpless in its walls of stone.

At 12:30 o'clock we seated ourselves on the large boulders at the foot of the roaring cataract and enjoyed a fine lunch. There was enough to go around and then some. There must have been a cut-rate sale of hardware sandwiches somewhere, as there were enough left over to feed a regiment of the unemployed. "Piedmont Bill's" cherry pie was delicious but "lasted quick." Owing to the absence of perpendicular refreshments we had to top off on "Pete's" hand-me-down cake.

After luncheon and a well-earned rest photos were taken of the falls and the beautiful surroundings. We then retraced our steps around the winding road and down into the valley. The journey homeward was without incident, save on one occasion. When passing through a pasture field the shattered attire of one of the party caused a modest heifer to turn her head in alarm.

Before reaching home the party accepted an invitation to visit the Sonoma City Water Company's works. The reservoir had just been cleaned and everything about the plant looked in good shape. Mr. Press Davis, the engineer in charge, showed us many improvements.

Thus came to an end the second trip of the Avoirdupois Club. "Hard feelings" will have to be forgotten before another one is attempted. We have photographs of everything except the trip.

RECORDED.

Death of Mrs. Turner.

Mrs. M. A. Turner, mother of Miss Mamie Kelly and Mr. J. W. Kelly, died at her home in this place Wednesday morning after a lingering illness. The deceased was a good, kind-hearted woman and was well-known in San Francisco, where she resided for many years previous to coming here for a change of climate.

The remains were shipped to San Francisco on Thursday for interment in Holy Cross cemetery, San Mateo county.

More Town Improvements.

The contract for a modern two-story brick building to be erected by Henry Castagnasso on the site of the one destroyed by fire last January will be let Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. Wicker have let the contract for the erection of a handsome residence on their lot on Second-street East adjoining the new home of Ralph Murphy.

Mrs. R. J. Snyder of San Rafael has decided to return to this valley and will build a handsome and commodious bungalow on her big farm, known as the Sears place, southwest of town.

Condition of the Hay Market

Somers & Co. of San Francisco report the condition of the hay market for the week ending the 1st inst., as follows:

"Monday's arrival of 1,200 ton of hay helped increase the total amount for the week ending March 1st to 3200 ton as compared with 2920 ton for last week. On that particular day the situation was naturally very weak, although for several days previous a fairly healthy tone was noted to the market here."

"Generally speaking the tone of the market shows no change, for the local demand continues a bit dull owing chiefly to the fact that general trade conditions are very quiet."

"The exportation of hay continues but moderately active with the exception of alfalfa shipments to Northern points, which trade still continues quite brisk. From present indications a month or two more of trade on alfalfa with Seattle, Portland and other coast cities to the North will probably be noted."

"Although the situation at the moment is rather unsatisfactory owing principally to the over-supply on our market, yet we anticipate a somewhat better situation as usual after the seventh of March—assessor's day. With more moderate shipments to this market and with a steadily increasing demand from Nevada it would seem that owners of hay might still have hopes for better things."

The Board of Supervisors.

The Sonoma County Board of Supervisors meet next Monday in March session. Many matters of importance will come up before that body for consideration, among them being the L. L. Lewis application for a water franchise.

The Man Behind the Gun.
The late Admiral Erben had the good fortune or the merit to originate a world circling phrase, "the man behind the gun." He used it in a speech on the factors of success in naval warfare to emphasize the necessity of having efficiency, preparedness, run through the entire personnel. It was also a reminder that the enlisted men have a good deal more to do with bringing about victory than always appears in history or official reports. The expression was employed in supplementing the views of Captain Mahan and attained circulation at once as epitomizing a whole library of instruction.—Boston Transcript.

The Waters Under the Earth.
Below a depth of six miles under the surface of the earth's crust it is believed that no water can exist in the rock formations, because the tremendous pressure probably closes all pores. But above that level the quantity of underground water is estimated to be equal to one-third of all the water contained in the oceans. If poured over the land surface of the globe the underground water would, it is averred, be sufficient to cover it to a uniform depth of from 3,000 to 3,500 feet.

Rapid Transit.
In response to a growing demand in his home a certain author once went to his father's house, borrowed the family high chair and started taking it home by hand. He had to wait long for his car, and when it finally came its conductor was a humorist. "Aren't you pretty big for that chair?" that official ventured. "Yes," admitted Webster wearily. "I grew up while waiting for the car."—Success Magazine.

Exclusive.
"My ancestors came over in the Mayflower," said the haughty lady. "Oh, yes," rejoined Mrs. Cumrox, with interest. "Mine didn't. None of my family ever cared for those big excursions."—Washington Star.

Genius.
"Why is it," asks a writer in File-gende Blatter, "that when a man discovers that he is a genius he allows his hair to grow long and that when a woman becomes similarly conscious she has her hair cut short?"

ASSESSOR'S NOTICE

to Property Owners

All taxpayers are required by the constitution to make and deliver to the County Assessor annually a statement, under oath, setting forth specifically all the real and personal property owned by such person, or in his possession, or under his control, at 12 o'clock M., on the first Monday in March.

Note—The assessment of property throughout the state of California is made during the months of March, April, May and June, and the law requires that each individual property holder file a statement with the assessor or his deputy during those months.

MORTGAGES

Mortgages or persons who hold mortgages against others must annually during the month of March report to the Assessor the amount due on their mortgages on the first Monday in March, otherwise proper deductions cannot be made.

PERSONAL PROPERTY

The Assessor must collect the taxes on all personal property when in his opinion said taxes are not a lien upon the real property sufficient to secure the payment of the taxes. The Assessor or his deputy must collect such taxes at the time of making the assessment.

State Poll and Road Poll Tax

Are due on demand from all persons liable to same, between the 1st Monday in March and the 1st Monday in July. The amount is $2 each. If not paid by the 1st Monday in July, $1 is added, and the amount becomes $3 each.

All persons owning real estate that has heretofore been assessed to the wrong name, or those who have purchased real estate within the past year, are requested to appear with their deeds at the Assessor's office or to the deputies, during the months of March, April and May, and have the proper changes made.

Will those having fruit trees or vines kindly enumerate the same, giving number and age of each kind, so as to save time when the deputy assessor calls?

Any desired information relative to assessments will be furnished upon application at the county assessor's office, Court House, Santa Rosa.

FRANK E. DOWD,
County Assessor
